Join us in April for our Women in Print luncheon, presented by Print & Graphic Communications Association. This event features an inspirational speaker who will provide a glimpse into their working and personal lives, as well as how they support the industry.

Our guest speaker is Deborah Corn, Intergalactic Ambassador to the Printiverse at Print Media Centre where she provides "printspiration" to print and marketing professionals around the world through her website, speaking engagements, events, Podcasts from The Printiverse, ProjectPeacock.TV, and an array of community lifting initiatives including Girls Who Print, now in their 15th year.

PGCA has partnered with Deborah Corn on many of the annual industry events she has created such as Women's Print Herstory Month, International Print Day and Girls Who Print Day. Last year, Deborah created Print Across America, a celebration including open houses at printing companies for students, customers and families to raise the perception of print as a career.

If you are in print, in any shape or form, you must be aware of Deborah Corn and her tireless efforts on behalf of the industry. Plan to attend the luncheon to hear what Deborah has to say about her experiences and her ideas for the future.

All are welcome to attend this event! Pass this invitation along to colleagues and friends who would enjoy getting together to share ideas, reflect on their shared experiences and have a few laughs. Details and registration information appears at right. Hope to see you then!
